

CCSD College and Career Readiness in the 21st Century

Definition of a 21st Century Learner: Chatham Central School District students take learning into their own hands and master core academic subjects by using information and communication technologies as well as other tools to investigate, analyze, problem solve, innovate and create.